Engenco wins $5 million WA train maintenance contracts

Engenco Limited (ASX:EGN) today announced that it has been awarded two maintenance contracts for the A-series electric commuter trains operated by the Public Transport Authority (PTA) of Western Australia in Perth.

The contracts were signed between Perth-based Gemco Rail, Engenco's specialist rail maintenance services business, and EDI Rail- Bombardier Transportation (Maintenance) Pty Ltd, the joint venture between Downer EDI and Bombardier Transportation Australia, which is contracted to provide cleaning and maintenance services for the entire fleet of narrow gauge trains for the PTA, including the A series and B series commuter trains. The PTA's A-series fleet consists of 48 two-car trains, which operate on Perth's suburban railway system.

Engenco's four-year contracts, valued at around $5 million in aggregate, are to service and maintain bogies and wheel-sets as part of EDI Rail Bombardier's commitment to maintain the A-series fleet.

The work will be carried out at Gemco Rail's specialist rolling-stock maintenance facilities at Forrestfield, WA.

Ross Dunning, managing director of Engenco, said:

"For the past 18 months, the Gemco Rail team has been working closely with EDI Rail Bombardier, to develop the procedures needed for this highly-skilled overhaul process.

"This contract is another instance of how Engenco's focus on customers' needs has led to a tailored solution for EDI Rail Bombardier. We look forward to working closely with EDI Rail Bombardier to ensure optimal performance of the A-series trains, with the intent of providing an uninterrupted service to the Perth public."
